

ABSTRACT

- 5 System comprising at least one effector and one receptor-modified elastomer, characterized in that upon bringing into contact the at least one effector with the at least one receptor-modified elastomer, a change in volume is triggered, which preferably is reversible, by means of forming a selective non-covalent or covalent bond between receptors and the at least one effector in the receptor-modified elastomer.

10